“Syd has been helping us out with our IT needs for over 8 years now. He has always been approachable, contactable and always ready to help solve any of our minor or major IT problems.

He has a very good knowledge base, and this shows when there are hardware and software issues that need addressing. He has continued to help our business, in all its stages of growth and expansion, and there was never a time where the issues were either too small or too large for him to take on. We have and would still recommend Syd and his team to anyone who is after a more personable and accessible IT professional.”
